Anzac Parade diversion works will take place in Moore Park from 1 April 2016

In planning for Tomorrow's Sydney we are building a new light rail line to provide fast reliable public transport from Circular Quay, through the CBD, to Kingsford and Randwick via Surry Hills, Moore Park and Kensington.

What we’re doing in Moore Park

ALTRAC Light Rail will soon start work in preparation for construction of the CBD and South East Light Rail tunnel under Anzac Parade in Moore Park.

Before work can start to build a light rail tunnel under Anzac Parade, a temporary road will need to be constructed to divert traffic safely around the work site.

From 1 April, work will start to build the temporary road adjacent to Anzac Parade, between Lang Road and Albert Tibby Cotter Walkway (Figure 1).

The diverted road will be six lanes wide, with three lanes in each direction and have a posted speed limit of 40km/h. This means that road space won’t be reduced and disruption to traffic will be minimised during construction. A temporary shared path will be constructed alongside the new roadway to provide safe access for pedestrians and cyclists.

When tunnel works under the road are completed, Anzac Parade and the existing shared path will be restored and traffic will return to the existing Anzac Parade alignment. The temporary road will be removed and the area reinstated.

The full traffic switch to the temporary road is planned to occur in July 2016.

It is anticipated that traffic will return to Anzac Parade around mid-2017.

Traffic changes
On various nights between April and July 2016, full southbound or northbound closures of Anzac Parade will be required. Detour signage and traffic control personnel will be in place to guide motorists, pedestrians and cyclists during these closures.

Northbound buses will use the Tramway Oval special event bus loop between 7am and 9am Monday to Friday. Outside of these times, northbound buses will use Anzac Parade. Southbound buses will operate on Anzac Parade at all times.

A temporary shared path for pedestrians and cyclists will be constructed alongside the temporary roadway, between the roadway and Tramway Oval. The path will be separated from the roadway for safety.
